

Abstract

A prosthesis is attached to bone by means of a stem that expands in a bone structure in response to the insertion of a pin.